RURAL TEACHERS

Governor Mann and Superintendent Stearnes Speak to Chesterfield Callers.

Sixty-five of the seventy-seven pub-lic school teachers of Chesterfield County gathered at the John Marshall High School yesterday morning to see how it is done in Richmond. They were brought in by William G. Owens, division school superintendent for Chesterfield. They were received by City Superintendent J. A. C. Chandler and by Principal James C. Harwood, or the John Marshall School, and shown through the building, the workings of through the building, the workings of the various departments being made clear to all the visitors.

Governor Mann, State Superintendent Stearnes and others addressed the meeting, speaking in the main regarding the opportunities for usefulness in the school rooms of to-day.

The high school chorus sang several selections for the Chesterfieldians. When the public exercises, held in the auditorium, were concluded, luncheds was served by the junior class in domestic science, and was pronounced int for any epicure.
